

Supporting Inclusive Practices Part III: Co-teaching - Beyond the Basic: Motivating Students in a Highly-Engaged Inclusive Classroom

This is part three of a three-part series. This session will go deeper into the six co-teaching approaches. The presenter will share a wealth of practical strategies, tools, and ideas for creating a highly engaging co-taught classroom where every student is an active learner. Participants will learn successful techniques to maximize use of co-teaching approaches, motivate and maintain student involvement, and improve their achievement in a co-taught classroom. Those who attend will learn to implement effective ways to diversify and differentiate instruction to increase success and strengthen achievement of every student by using a variety of flexible grouping techniques. Participants will learn how to use data to monitor student success rate. Teams will use the training resources and materials to design a phase III action plan that articulates a process for continuous improvement of co-teaching efforts at their district/site.

Presenter: Susan Hentz, renowned educational consultant, author, and teacher.
