

Supporting Inclusive Practices Part II: Collaboration and Co-teaching - Practical Approaches to Improve Student Achievement

This is part two of a three-part series. This session will review key concepts about the six co-teaching approaches, the “why” of co-teaching and the benefits for every student. Participants will engage in discussions and activities that support best practices for selecting, implementing, and measuring effectiveness of co-teaching approaches. There will be exploration into a variety of essential elements that inform successful collaboration and co-teaching partnerships. Those who attend will experience best practice strategies that will enrich co-teaching and provide quality instruction for all learners. Teams will use the training resources and materials to design a phase II action plan that articulates a process for implementing and/or refining co-teaching efforts at their district/site.

Presenter: Susan Hentz, renowned educational consultant, author, and teacher.
